Some see this as a “problem verse” within the Bible.

Calvinists use this occasion to support false doctrine.

God did not force Pharaoh to do anything. He simply supplied him with a choice.
